Cityhood Takes Worst Beating

None of 19 Precincts Carry As 5,000 Voters Turn Out

Lemon Grove incorporation took a larruping Tuesday by a vote of 3,167 to 2,013.

It was the worst defeat of the three attempts to form a city. In 1955 the issue was defeated by 2,180 to 1,607 and again in 1959 by 2,783 to 2,301.

Fifteen candidates competed for five seats on the council of the proposed city. The five who would have served as councilmen by virtue of polling the most votes were:

Frank Armstrong, 59, an attorney, 2093

Paul Reynolds, 45, school district business manager, 1623

Kenneth Conrad, 48, funeral director, 1622

Robert Vaught, 49, camera shop owner, 1587

Dr. Frank Gigliotti, 67, retired minister, 1584

The other ten folowed in this order:

Forrest Baxter, 54, sheet metal firm owner, 1411

Parker Shumate, 39, telephone company employe, 1324

Jesse Lee, 59, travel bureau owner, 1160

Blanche Davis, 50, retired teacher, 1142

Charles Hesser, Grossmont hospital director, 949

Kenneth Ostrander, 55, retired naval officer, 902

Williams Owens, 37, insuranceman, 591

Killiam Ross, retired civil service employe, 575

Marion Morgan, 34, civil service, 498

Clifford Elkins, 53, Rohr aircraft employe, 417

By precincts the for-and-against count was:

Precinct	For	Against
1.	88	90
2.	113	162
3.	127	164
4.	121	230

The City of Lemon Grove would have had an income of more than $700,000 a year, proponents of the proposition averred. It would have accumulated about $375,000 in taxes returned by the state between the forming of the city and July 1, 1965, the date when County services would have ended.

The city would have been 4.4 square miles in area with a population of 24,822.

It would have started caring for local needs about November 1.

There are no plans to try to incorporate again, proponets say. By present law, another try may not be made for two years. Even then, the attempt must have the approval of the Local Agencies Formation Commission, a group appointed to explore the feasibility of annexation and incorporations.

Frank Armstrong, the original proponent of move said that the issue of cityhood is dead. "We told the people the truth. I don't think we will ever be able to become a city. We're dead on this."

Gives Gripe On Gilding Goldwater

Gilding Goldwater resulted in the arrest of a 16-year-old boy and possible involvement of three other youths.

Thomas Clabby of 1650 Angelus, Lemon Grove, a Goldwater campaign worker, caught the boy spraying gold paint on an election campaign sign displayed on his property. In addition to spraying the sign the boys also threw tomatoes at the sign.

Four Burglaries Reported

Swedish TV Dull, Dry Says Engineer

Members of the Lemon Grove Men's Club learned Friday that television in Sweden, under strict government control, is dry and dull. LeRoy Bellwood, a Lemon Grove man who returned recently from Europe gave the report.

Bellwood, who lives at 2875 Washington ave., is director of engineering for KOGO in San Diego.

He went to Sweden on an engineering assignment for the Life-Time Broadcast Co., operators of KOGO and other stations throughout the world.

There are so few strictly entertaining programs telecast on the government controlled stations that a rebellion occurred when Sweden's station dropped "Bonanza", he reported.

For all the talk about socialism being a happy situation in Sweden there is evidence that it isn't so. 'Many of my acquaintances there urged me to do whatever I could to stop the trend toward socialism in America. 'The U.S.' they said, 'is the last bulwark of freedom. After socialism comes to the U.S. we have nowhere to turn,," Bellwood reported that they said.

He showed color slides of the places he visited.

The Men's Club program this week will be provided by Dick Wilson, candidate for Congress. The following week Congressman Lionel Van Deerlin will be speaker. Lt. Buzz Ernest, who is in charge of the east county section of the Sheriff's Department, will speak October 30.

The club meets every Friday at Michael's for a no-host luncheon. All males are welcome to attend the meetings.

727 Families Contribute To Retarded Children's Playground Equipment

The reader total of this newspaper continues to soar with a new record being racked up every week.

This week 47 families became subscribers. That added to the 670 already reported bring the total of the campaign to 727.

What's more, because of their signing up, a contribution is made in their names to Angels Unaware, the East County Chapter of the San Diego Association for Retarded Children in El Cajon.

Retarded children are cared for and trained at Angels Unaware. Contributions made in the names of new subscibers are used for a playground equipment fund. Amounts ranging from 10c to $3.50 are turned over to Angel Unaware for each subsciption obtained. A simple renewal (through our salespeople) provides the smaller amount. $3.50 is contributed when a first time subscriber pays for the newspaper for two years through one of Angels Unaware members. Varying amounts in between are handed over for other conditions.

Angels Unaware operates a day center for east county children at 1388 Lexington ave., El Cajon. Children from Spring Valley and Lemon Grove, unable to attend public schools because of a retarded condition, are cared for there.

Each week this publication prints the names of the families who have agreed to participate. This week's list of 47 subscribers includes:

The plea was made by Orville Anderson, parent's club president.

Men and women are needed to help with swimming, bowling, arts and crafts, dancing, physical education and drama.

Volunteers are also needed for helping youngsters with handicap projects, cooking and sewing, typing and simple office practices.

Volunteers should call 444-9417 to apply.

Rezoning Denied After Protest

SAN DIEGO (CNA) — The County Planning Commission has recomended denial of C-2 zoning requested by Carl P. Dick for property on the southside of Sweetwater rd. about 150 feet east of the intersection with Broadway.

Dick said that his plans for the property would prove an asset and that it would be at least as good as anything in the vicinity.

Mrs. Ada Felski who owns commercial property to the north east opposed the request. (C-2 allows outdoor operations forbidden in a C zone.)

The planning department had suggested that the request be granted after Dick granted the county additional right of way on Sweetwater.

In another matter, the commission granted a reduction in rear yard from 15 feet to zero feet for property at 7850 Lester ave. The commission noted that this commercial property is in a block that is built up to the extent that an alley is impractical.

The commission also granted C. Urcinoli a reduction in rear yard from 25 feet to zero feet for a proposed addition to an existing dwelling at 2545 Pergle st.

There were no protests to either of the two Lemon Grove requests.

Candidates In Row Over County Employes' Campaign Letters

Bird Calls For Employes' Help

David W. Bird, incumbent County Supervisor from the Second District, today appealed to the county employees, both active and retired, to support his re-election.

In a letter to the county employees, Bird reminded them that both the California Supreme Court and the County Counsel have ruled that county employees may support candidates by using bumper banners and by distributing cards.

Bird's letter to the active employees contained an endorsement from Helen Kleckner, the Clerk of the Board. His letter to the retired employees contained an endorsement from Elsie B. Wiley, President of the San Diego Retired Employees Association.

Bird's letter said, "Over the years I have continually supported and voted for better working conditions and benefits for all county employees.

"My opponent has unlimited finances to conduct his campaign. I am appealing to all my

Letters Morally Wrong Says Boney

Henry Boney, candidate for 2nd District Supervisor, Saturday charged Supervisor David Bird with using the Supervisor's office to pressure political support from County employees.

Boney, speaking at a meeting of La Mesa residents, exhibited letters sent by his opponent to County employees. Boney called the letters "morally wrong" and "highly improper". One letter was from his opponent asking support from Civil Service employees. The second letter was addressed to his opponent by the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors and was type on official County stationery. Boney said that the second letter "implied an endorsement by the Board of Supervisors".

Referring to the letters Boney stated, "He (the incumbent) should know it is a violation of that section of the Government Code pertaining to political activities of public employees."

Boney said he had talked to other members of the Board of Supervisors and that he would

Supervisors Slap Complainant On County Letter Distribution

SAN DIEGO (CNS) — Supervisor De Graf Austin, Fourth District, Tuesday gave voice to some tart comments concerning the candidacy of Henry A. Boney who is opposing Supervisor David W. Bird in the Second District.

Austin's remarks came after a letter from Boney had been filed with the board and after Bird had requested comments of County Counsel Bertram McLees on some of his own campaign material.

Austin said, "I'm not surprised at this. It should be obvious to anyone what he is doing. He wants to get on the board to use the board as a platform for his political position.

Boney's letter to the board read, "Last week a County employee who is a friend of mine received a letter from my opponent. In this letter his help was solicited in the campaign for the re-election of my opponent. My friend resents this overture in this manner. I do too, and for this reason I am writing to you.

"A second letter was enclosed. It was addressed to my opponent by the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors and was typed at taxpayers expense on the official stationery of the San Diego County Board of Supervisors. In the Clerk's letter she states, 'you may be assured of the continued loyalty and support of this office and I am sure that each and every member of our staff joins me in wishing you success in the coming election.'

"I have authoritative information that the letters of my opponent were drafted and redrafted in county offices at the expense of the taxpayers. I have additional information that the labels used in mailing these letters were from the County Employee's Association.

"We know that each County employee is free to vote for any candidate he may choose. Indeed, it is the essence of our Civil Service system that merit determines longevity and advancement — not who is elected supervisor.

"I believe it is highly improper for the Clerk of the Board or any other Civil Service employee to take County time to help prepare campaign material. I believe her letter implied an endorsement of my opponent by the Board of Supervisors.

"If you had no knowledge of the letters sent out, and did not approve an official endorsement of my opponent, I would appreciate a statemet of clarification. I would ask that you take whatever action you deem necessary regarding the possible violations involved.

"Let me say that a County employee should never be put under pressure for political support be it spoken or implied. I am sure that regardless of the outcome of this campaign, the Second District Supervisor will have the County employees' best interests at heart in the future."

The letter from Mrs. Helen Kleckner, clerk of the board, says in part, "I take the opportunity to tell you how much I value this business relationship which has existed throughout the years. Your (Bird's) conscientious planning and clear thinking have earned for you the leadership which you deserve."

The letter sent to employees is a reproduction of the original letter which was on county stationery. Bird said at the meeting Tuesday that it was reproduced at his expense at his headquarters.

McLees said he does not think anything wrong has been done. He said that Mrs. Kleckner has the right to her own opinion and a right to write down that opinion.

He said there was no implication of an action of the board because the board can take action only in formal session, which was not done. He said that Boney possibly did not understand that.

Supervisor Robert Cozens said that perhaps more discretion should have been used in the use of a county letterhead but he also defended the right of Mrs. Kleckner to state her position. He said that the county proposition on the November ballot which will allow county employees more latitude in politics (as has been ruled already by the state Supreme Court) proves that the board does not want the employees to be "second class" citizens.

Mrs. Kleckner said that the letter was entirely voluntary on her part and that she was the only person to work on it. She said that she was sorry if she had caused any embarrassment to anyone.

We Salute National Newspaper Week

This is National Newspaper Week. During the week, newsmen are urging their readers to consider the many-sided role a newspaper plays in each citizen's life.

A newspaper — even in this day of television and radio — is the only medium devoted exclusively to the dispensing of information.

Day in and day out, its interests are as broad as the universe and as intimate as the neighbor next door. The newspaper brings historic news from Saigon, London, Paris, Washington; it also records the birth in a happy household in the next block; it brings word of the latest bargains at a district shopping area and also from the corner store.

Not always so well understood is the role a newspaper plays in preserving our freedoms. A good newspaper must be the conscience of a community and of the nation. This is the role of the free press.

For whom is the press free? Not for the benefit of newspaper owners, but for the cause of individual freedom for the citizen.

The constitutional provision for freedom the press is part of the broader guarantee of the individual's right to speak and discuss freely without fear of governmental reprisals.

The constitution says: "Congress shall make no law . . . abridging the freedom of speech or of the press."

The right of free speech would mean little without free press. This was true in Washington's time; it is even more true today in our complex society of hundreds of millions.

The right to speak frankly would have little practical effect today without the right to print, too. Even though the speaker had access to television or radio, he could speak only if what he he said was generally approved by government, since radio and television licenses are granted and renewed only with the approval of politicians

The press, on the other hand, is unfettered. It is neither

The church has supported Operation Concern since it was first started. Dr. Turpin made personal appearances at the Lemon Grove church prior to starting the project.

"This important role of the laity is a vital ingredient within the Christian faith which makes it a powerful force for good around the world," Dr. Jordan Detzer, the church's pastor said.

Jehovah's Witnesses To Attend Meeting At Russ Auditorium

All Kingdom Hall meetings of Jehovah's Witnesses in the Lemon Grove-Spring Valley area will be transferred to the Russ Auditorium for the period of Oct. 16 to 18. This announcement was made by Carl E Jones, local presiding minister.

When asked why Jehovah's Witnesses stress regular meeting attendance both in the congregation and at general assemblies, Jones explained, "Regular association encourages application of Bible principles to everyday life. This acts as a bulwark to combat the general moral decay prevailing world-wide today. We all profit by the mutual exchange of encouragement given. Christ Jesus himself said 'Where two or three are gathered together in my name there am I in their midst'."

Featured speaker of the seminar will be Theodore Jaracz district supervisor for Jehovah's Witnesses. Saturday at 1:30 p.m. he speaks on Dedication and Baptism. About 35 from San Diego are expected to be ordained.

Main talk of the gathering comes Sunday at 3 p.m. when Jaracz speaks on the subject: "Our Divided World—Is It Here To Stay?" All goodwill persons are welcome to all sessions which are free.

Christian Science Topic Is Atonement

"Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." This verse from John (15:13) will be the Golden Text for a Bible Lesson on "Doctrine of Atonement" to be read at Christian Science services this Sunday at 7741 Pacific ave., Lemon Grove.

Services are at 11 a.m. Sunday school is at 9:30 a.m.

ANNUAL EVENT — Max Goodwin, center, gets a gridiron type roasting at a Saturday night banquet in his honor. Goodwin's service to the community was noted by the presentation of three plaques. In the photo are Jack Cummings, Bank of America executive who was in charge of the event, and Guy Ryan, Union-Tribune executive, who was master of ceremonies.

ANNUAL 'APPRECIATION NIGHT' HONORS LOCAL NEWSPAPERMAN

Nearly 150 people took part in a "Max Goodwin Appreciation Dinner" Saturday night at Michael's in Lemon Grove

Goodwin, publisher of local newspapers, was the second local citizen to be honored in an annual event sponsored by the Lemon Grove Men's Club. He is former president of the club

In charge of the event which was kept "secret" from Goodwin was Jack Cummings, manager of the Bank of America in Lemon Grove.

Guy Ryan, community relations director of the San Diego Union and Tribune was master of ceremonies. He gave Goodwin a going over in best gridiron tradition.

Byron Netzley, district superintendent of the Lemon Grove school district, delivered an eulogy in which he cited Goodwin's contribution to schools. Goodwin is 1963 winner of the John Swett Merit Citation, one of the highest awards given by the teaching profession.

Two plaques, a desk set and a medallion were awarded during the ceremony. The plaques from the L. G. Men's Club was for 'continuing community effort" from the L. G. Chamber of Commerce the plaque was for 'marked continuing service." The award was made by Chamber President Forrest Baxter.

A marble desk set from the Bank of America noted that the editor was "courageous".

Mrs. Virginia Long presented Goodwin with a lunch-plate plaque for his interest in PTA news events. Mrs. Long is past president of the Valley-Grove PTA.

SHERIFF'S STAR GIVEN

Presentation of a "junior sheriff's star" was remindful of the rumble the editor had with the sheriff's department earlier in the month when sheriff"s deputies raided a local card game in which community leaders were involved. The card players were given treatment usually reserved for dope peddlers and gunmen. Goodwin, in an editorial demanded that officers should be able to distinguish between lawbreakers and criminals or they should be replaced. The sheriff was not among the guests.

Cummings said that more than sixty tickets had to be recalled when the capacity limit of the banquet room was restricted by the Fire Marshal of the Lemon Grove Fire Department. At the 1963 version of the event the kitchen at Michael's caught fire. Tony Sonka was honored at that dinner. The dinner was delayed an hour while firemen extinguished the blaze. No such incident marred the Goodwin affair.

40,000 GREEN STAMPS

Several telegrams and letters, some of them gridiron type, were read.

George Scott, San Diego department store owner, contributed 40,000 Green Stamps for prizes after Scott's wife won the door prize for the evening. Sam Pernicano, past president of the Chamber was winner of the stamp prize and in the verbal whoop-de-do that followed, Scott tossed in another 10,000 Green Stamps, these to Ruby Goodwin, wife of the honored guest. Mrs. H. Hensley, wife of the local fire chief and Dr. James G. Osborne, a physician-surgeon, each won a batch of 10,000 stamps.

In the response, Goodwin returned the needling to many of his friends, but wrapped it up by admitting he "appreciated being appreciated."

Douglas Nairns of Bank of America handled the arrangements for the dinner. Hank Hurley, of the same bank, handled the tickets.

SLOT-RACE TRACKS TO OPEN IN L.G.

Broadway Hobbies, a new firm, opening about Nov. 1, will operate a group of model car raceways in Lemon Grove at 7961 Broadway in the building formerly occupied by Dial Drug store.

William A. Anderson, a Fletcher Hills resident, said that he will install two slot-racing courses, each with 8 lanes.

The course will accommodate both 1/24 and 1/32 scale autos. One course is 90 feet long; the other 100.

New tracks, designed expressly to challenge those interested in slot-racing offer long, sweeping flat turns and banked cross over sections.

The tracks will be operated for a hobby and will cater to family competition. Strictly enforced rules will line up with national rules so that national competition can be conducted.

Anderson, who formerly operated a wholesale upholstering shop at Gillespie Field, said that fans would be charged by the hour for use of the tracks.

One of the largest inventories of models and parts will be put on the shelves. More than $3,000 in parts alone will be stocked, he said.

Slot racing has become increasingly popular during the past 3 years after the sport was brought to America from England.

Racers need only a model, a starter and 25c to $1 for track rental fees.

Here is another column by veteran writer Pete Odens of Imperial Valley. An interesting historian, his columns, which we will publish from time to time, will concern history of Southern California.

by Peter Odens

LOS ANGELES, California—"Juan Flaco, sir," a soldier announced, "I mean-John Brown." A tall, young man stepped before Cpt. Archibald H. Gillespie in old Fort Hill which stood where Hill street in Los Angeles is today, between Temple and Sunset Boulevard.

"Brown, we're surrounded by some 500 Californians," the commander of the fort addressed the young man. "And we need help from Monterey — or from wherever you'll meet up with Commodore Stockton." Within minutes, Gillespie had sketched the desperate situation.

Only recently, Los Angeles had been taken by the invading Americans and not a single shot had been fired. Both Stockton and John C. Fremont, the "Pathfinder," had felt that the battle for California was over. They had left only fifty men with Gillespie and had continued on their way up north to Monterey where the government was to be organized now that the war was over.

The Californians had other ideas. Under the leadership of Andres Pico of Los Angeles and Jose Carrillo of Santa Babara they counter - attacked and Gillespie found himself in a trap with help 400 miles away.

Asks Assistance

The young man upon whom he called for assistance had been born in Sweden in 1799 and, after an adventurous life in the British and Portuguese navies now found himself a courier for the Americans, or rather, the Anglos as they were called in California. Because he was a tall, thin person, he had been given the nickname Juan Flaco (Thin John) and was generally known by that name.

Gillespie gave Flaco a wad of cigarette paper. Stamped on each piece of paper were the words "Believe the bearer" with Gillespie's seal underneath. "This will help you get through, Brown," the captain said. "And now, good luck."

Knowing that word of his upcoming ride could not be kept from the Californios, Flaco quickly spread the rumor that he was about to defect from the Anglos. And as a big orange moon was rising that night in September, 1846 Flaco slipped through the guard and rode out into the direction of Cahuenga Pass. He carried no gun, only his Bowie knife. Outside, he was stopped by a group of Californios who questioned him sharply. He told them that he was afraid of the Anglos and was deserting. When they appeared to be doubting his word, Flaco dug his heals into the flanks of his horse and galloped off, a dozen or more Californios after him. Before he could reach the safety of Cahuenga Pass, Flaco came to an arroyo about 13 feet wide. Could he get across? He saw no other way out as his pursuers were closing in on him and began to open fire. Flaco urged his horse on and the animal obeyed, crossing the arroyo in a mighty leap. The Californios however, decided that the jump was too risky and made a detour which gained Flaco valuable time.

Now Its Sunset

This happened just a couple miles from Fort Hill. Today, the arroyo has disappeared and cars are racing down Sunset and Silver Lake boulevards where once Juan Flaco escaped from the Californios.

But his troubles had just begun. His horse was slowing down, apparently hit by a bullet, and eventually dropped dead in its tracks and Flaco had to continue on foot. He marched all night for 27 long miles without being detected and, in the morning, arrived at Rancho Los Virgenes whose owner, Domino Dominguez was a friend of the Californios. Knowing the Californios distrust of the French, Flaco told him that he had been robbed by a Frenchman, and Dominguez received him courteously. At the ranch, Flaco found one Tom Lewis who was an unwelcome house guest of Dominguez' and, when Flaco was about to continue on his trip north, Dominguez suggested Lewis accompany him.

The two men now rode off on horse Dominguez had willingly given them, but Lewis eventually tired of the furious pace set by Flaco and stayed behind.

Meets Grizzly

Riding day and night, Flaco continued on his mission. He ran into a grizzly bear and, with his heavy Bowie knife, succeeded in killing him. Whenever he needed a fresh horse, he asked for help by various ranchers giving them freely of the cigarette paper which he kept hidden in his curly hair.

Only 52 hours after leaving Fort Hill, Juan Flaco arrived in Monterey but found that Stockton had gone on to San Francisco, another 100 miles away. After a brief three hours' rest, Flaco continued on to San Francisco, just five days after he had left Los Angeles, a wonderful feat indeed. He had ridden so fast that he had arrived in San Francisco before Stockton whose ship had not yet pulled into the bay.

Afraid that something might go wrong at the last minute, Juan Flaco did not want to sleep in a hotel. Instead, he rested briefly on the beach awaiting Stockton's arrival. The next morning, he made his report to the commodore and Stockton immediately sent 350 men to San Pedro on the U.S.S. Savannah. Unfortunately, heavy fog made it impossible for the ship to arrive before Oct. 7. By then, Gillespie had already surrendered to the Californios.

One might think that John Brown, or Juan Flaco, if you prefer, would recieve some reward for his gallant attempt to save the garrison of Fort Hill, but this was not the case and he received no payment. Many years later, he died in a poor house and now lies buried in an unmarked grave. Unlike Paul Revere, he found no Longfellow to sing his praise in verse, although school children occassionally used to sing a song which, in poor English and equally poor poetry, began with the words,

"Listen my children, and you'll get a shocko
At the marvelous ride of Long John Flaco."

In 1943, when another Liberty Ship was launched, most people who read the name on its bow, shook their heads and asked, "Who was this Juan Flaco, anyhow?"

supported by government nor regulated by it. It may not be shut up by anyone except by economic force exerted by its readers. It is tempered only by the need of public acceptance.

Newspaper are subject, however, to laws protecting the innocent against libel and slander, just as an individual is subject to them. Thus, when the press exposes, it must be able to prove truth and that it is acting in the public interest. Newspapers, large and small, are key factors in the check-balance system of a free society.

Thomas Jefferson said it well in a letter to LaFayette in 1823. He wrote:

"The only security for all is a free press. The force of public opinion cannot be resisted when permitted freely to be expressed." And he added.

"The agitation is produces must be submitted to. It is necessary to keep the water pure."

Calls For Bumper Strip Show

There's a move afoot in California to outlaw bumper strips.

The major proponent is a northern Californian who hopes to get in on the ballot at some election yet to come.

His claim is that his Constitutional rights are being invaded. Highways, he says, are public ways and drivers on California highways are "captives".

Since driver's eyes are likely as not glued on the back of the car ahead, the bumper strip message insidiously implants itself in the driver's subconscious mind. The front bumper strip would be a flash message but a whole highway full of motorists would get the "flash."

The fellow has his point.

If we're going to be advertising recipients, we ought to get some reward.

You watch television razor advertising and you are rewarded with the ball game. You watch the stomach drip advertising and you get the private eye show. Such rewards are accepted as standard operating procedure.

The bumper strip complainant didn't grumble about teevee commercials though, did he?

He felt his reward was reasonable when the bad guy got jailed by the handsome detective who is not only personable but rich to boot.

If the bumper sticker people want to put down this uprising they've got to follow teevee's practice.

They can make it a rule that the display of any back bumper sticker must be accompanied by the seating of a shapely blonde, scantily clad, in a position where she can be viewed through the back window. A bumper strip show, so to speak.

If the complainant grumbles that he is partial to brunettes we'll clobber him.

Social Security Question Box

By Guy Deeks

This column is presented as a public service feature of this paper. In co-operation with the San Diego District Office of the Social Security Administration typical questions about social security will be answered here.

Question: I am out of work for the first time in 25 years because of a plant shutdown. At 45 years of age it is difficult to get other employment. Can I protect my social security level of earnings by "freezing" the record?

Answer: You can freeze your social security earnings record at a point prior to retirement age only if you are disabled for work because of a long lasting illness or injury.

Question: My five year old son is getting monthly social security payments on his deceased father's social security account. Since I have him in my care, I am getting monthly widow's benefits. I know that the widow's benefits will stop if I remarry. What I want to know is will the child's benefits stop also if I remarry?

Answer: The child's benefits will continue because your marriage does not change his relationship to the deceased worker.

'Accents' Rehired For SV Dances By C Of C Board

The "Accents," a popular local combo, has been rehired by the Spring Valley Chamber of Commerce, it was learned at Monday night's meeting of the chamber board. The band, which drew crowds to the local teen age dances at the Chamber hall, has returned, at their own request, a chamber board member reported. At their first dance approximately 150 dancers attended and the second night, about 200 were present.

The dances at the S. V. Chamber of Commerce hall are being well supervised, a chamber spokesman said. A man and wife team will be on hand each dance night to see that everything is in order. Also there are to be five officers and one matron to keep order. These teen age dances are being held each Wednesday and Sunday night.

Ambulance Required For 2 SV Accidents

Two persons were injured in two separate accidents in Spring Valley this past week and taken to Grossmont Hospital by the S.V. ambulance.

Mrs. Geraldine E. Grove, 54 of 7635 Brookhaven rd., San Diego, was taken to Grossmont with possible internal injuries and abrasions on the leg and face, after she was in a two car accident at Avocado blvd and Itzamna rd. in the Homelands area. According to the Calif. Highway Patrol, driver of the other car was Anthony I Gardner, 17, of 10655 Itzamna rd. Gardner was entering Avocado rd from Itzamina rd. and had stopped for the boulevard Mrs. Grove was going south on Avocado rd. and turned into Itzamna, striking the Gardner car. The accident occured Oct. 12 at about 7:40 p.m.

A boy on a bicycle and a car came together at Kempton st. and San Diego ave.. on Oct. 12, sending the boy to Grossmont with injuries. The C.H.P. said the boy, 9-year old J. Evers of 429 Felicita st., Spring Valley, and driver of the car, Herbert H. Lewis, of Mira Mar Airforce Base, collided at the intersection, but to date the blame has not been put on either person.

Four other persons were taken to hospitals for illness during the week: Edith Mae Duncan of 1200 Grand, Space 50, to Chula Vista Hospital; Mrs. Scott of 8767 Heil st.; Ruby McDougal of 9545 Campo rd.; and Mary George of 1009 Gillespie st.

Three fire calls were answered. On Oct. 6, Mrs. Arthur Cannon of 10272 Gaul ln. Near Casa de Oro School, had taken her daughter to a doctor and left a skillet of cooking oil on the stove. The oil caught fire and the flames spread in the kitchen. Approximately $85 damage was reported.

A car belonging to Raymond Lobbes of 3425 Trophy dr., Brookside caught on fire Oct. 8, due to a backfire through the carburetor. No damage was reported. The fire was in the 3500 block, Fairway dr.

Children playing with matches were the cause of a grass fire at Del Rio and Sweetwater Springs blvd. on Oct. 9. No property damage was reported.

Test-Performance Variance Studies Of Drivers Made

A three-year research program is currently underway in California to determine whether there is any relationship between vision test scores and driving performance. The study is being conducted by the Institute of Transportation and Traffic Engineering at UCLA in conjunction with the Department of Motor Vehicles, and is financed by a grant from the United States Public Health Service.

Under the program, which will end March ,1965, a trailer containing several different vision-testing devices is traveling around the state. The goal of the program is to measure the visual performance of 20,000 volunteer driver license applicants, and to compare this performance with past driving records to determine if there are any consistent relationships.

It is hoped from the results will come indications of what aspects of vision seem to be most important in driving, and consequently, what vision tests may be of greatest value in screening future driver license applicants. The study is part of a continuing program of both agencies to provide greater traffic safety on California highways.

The performance of each volunteer subject will be measured on six separate test of vision, including standard (or "static") visual acuity, field of vision, glare recovery, phoria (the way the eyes "aim"), "eyedness", and a new test called "dynamic visual acuity", in which the subject views moving targets as is the case under actual driving conditions. This "dynamic visual acuity" test was developed at UCLA by psychologists Albert Burg and Slade Hulbert, under the direction of the late J.H. Mathewson.

It should be emphasized that there wil be absolutely no penalty to participants in the study as a result of test findings, and the status of the volunteer's license will not be affected in any way by his performance, which will be held confidential.

Unruh Slaps State Tax Structure

SACRAMENTO — Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh has lashed out at "that festering sore in our revenue structure — the property tax" and criticized "wasteful duplication of local government services" as he stated the case for structural reforms in California taxation and local government organization.

Unruh called for state government action to assure equitable taxation and efficient, effective use of tax dollars in an address recently at the annual conference of the State Association of County Assessors of California.

He noted that in the last ten years, while the population has increased by 41 per cent, the assessed valuation of the State has increased 83.7 per cent, and the personal income of Californians has increased by 83.5 per cent, property tax collections have increased by 150 per cent and expenditures of the state's 3342 special districts have increased by more than 1127 per cent.

"Property tax collections have increased almost twice as fast as personal income," he said, stressing that "we must reduce this burden on our citizens".

"We all know that the property tax, although proportional in rate, is often regressive when related to the income of the property owners. This is because a considerable portion of the tax falls on housing and housing expenditure tends to decline as income rises," Unruh said.

Questioning both the soundness of the property tax as a revenue source and increasing pressure of the property tax on the income of citizens, the Assembly speaker described several other faults in his indictment of the system of taxation.

According to Unruh, the property tax places a heavy burden on persons with small current cash incomes, serves as a poor index of benefits received, and fails to adjust adequately to the changing economic conditions of an industrialized society.

"Property tax yields tend to lag behind over-all changes in economic activitiy and thus accentuate inflationary pressures in periods of prosperity and deflationary pressures during recession.

"Due to differing economic conditions in our communities and due to the differing judgments of assessors, we may find similar pieces of property in different areas with greatly varying assessed valuations," he said condemning the inequitable application of property taxes under the present structure.

Unruh said that much of the mounting property tax burden supports wasteful duplication of local government services and that "to improve upon the tax climate in this state we not only need to improve the structure of the property tax, we need to improve the structure of local government."

Now is the time that Red Spider may attack hedges such as Japanese Boxwood or shrubs such as Pyracantha. This minute spider or mite causes the leaves to turn brown. Check by rubbing the backs of the leaves with your fingers; if your finger shows a red stain, Red Spiders are at work .

Almost all evergreens are susceptible to a Red Spider infestation but they are easily controlled with a Kelthane product. This material kills the eggs as well as the adults. Kelthane is a specific miticide and does not kill other insects. It is available from your local nurseryman.

Three U.S. Presidents:

cleared the tracks nationally for railroad peace—Let's complete the job in California!

PROPOSITION 17 makes it possible for California to put into effect the national transportation settlements—worked out by Congress and Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson—which eliminate wasteful featherbedding in the railroad industry under terms that insure maximum job protection, yet retain two men in the cab of all trains.

These settlements are now in effect in most states—but not in California because of a conflicting "horse and buggy days" law which Proposition 17 repeals.

To help keep freight rates down—

Goodwill Drive Set For Oct. 31

The Tenth Annual Good Turn for Goodwill Drive will be held on Saturday, Oct. 31, countywide, under the sponsorship of the San Diego County Council of Rotary Clubs, it was announced by Dr. Rex Gorton, chairman. Zig Nevedomsky, business representative, Teamsters Local 542, is vice-chairman of the drive, which last year brought in approximately 33,000 bags of discarded repairable clothing, household articles and other goods to . . "Help employ the handicapped at Goodwill Industries of San Diego County."

Thousands of Boy Scouts, doing their good turn, will distribute 175,000 Goodwill bags to homes in the county on Oct. 24, Gorton said.

Then on Saturday, Oct. 31, the Scouts will return and pick up the bags, filled, it is hoped, with the discarded goods, which will then be trucked by 35 trucks, furnished by the San Diego Chapter of the California Trucking Association, and Driven by volunteer members of the Local Teamsters Union 542 to a special warehouse at Fifth and J streets in San Diego.

At the warhouse, Rotarians will supervise the unloading of the trucks, which will be done by 75 Marines from the Marine Corp Recruit Depot and 75 students at the Navy Radioman "A" School of the Naval Training Center. Rotarians in various areas will also check on uncollected Goodwill bags and arrange to have them transported to the warehouse.
